Dear Colleagues,

The ongoing world crisis on raw materials is leading to problems of availability of several materials and of the polyvinylidene fluoride (PVDF) polymer as well.

To continue to offer our customers the current range of PVDF products, Aliaxis is relying on various raw material suppliers, all approved and qualified by our quality control departments.

These actions have no impact on the quality of our products, on their physical and chemical characteristics, on the performance and on the warranty related to them.

The only difference that could be found lies in a slight colour change compared to the current translucent white. This variation is to be considered purely aesthetic and has no impact on the use of the product and its applicability.

For any further information you may need, please contact our PVDF Fittings Product Manager Mrs. Giulia Lecchi at glecchi@alixaxis.com

Best regards,

Industry Segment Director EMEA
